

Securityhunter, Inc. Hires Social Media Specialist

Baltimore, MD October 1, 2019

Securityhunter, Inc., located in Baltimore, Maryland, hires David Stein to the position of Social Media Specialist

With the use of social media on the rise, Securityhunter Executive Director, Ross Nelson thought it important to hire a Social Media Specialist. “In today’s marketplace, it’s important to properly manage the company’s online presence.” says Nelson.

Already working for the company as a summer intern, David Stein, a college student majoring in Business Administration at Towson University, seemed to be the obvious choice. As the Social Media Specialist, David is responsible for developing a strategic branding campaign for Securityhunter, facilitating all social media accounts, and tentatively responding to consumer/individual responses on social media platforms. Since being hired as the Social Media Specialist, Securityhunter can be found on Facebook, Twitter, YouTube and Instagram. His goal is to provide Securityhunter with a consistent and updated social media presence, increased access to consumer clientele, and maintain the company’s image and online presence.

When asked about what the new position means to him, Stein stated, “It is an honor to be offered the position of Social Media Specialist at Securityhunter. I look forward to developing Securityhunter’s online presence in this constantly changing climate, and ensure that we are able to expand our market share in our industry. I am grateful to have a wonderful group of individuals to work alongside”.

In addition to his role as Social Media Specialist, David also provides support for business development.

Welcome David.
